Apologetics For A New Generation: A Biblical And Culturally Relevant Approach To Talking About God (ConversantLife.com,®)

Synopsis

Many teenagers leave home for college but don't take their faith with them. Popular writer and speaker Sean McDowell offers a solution for this problem: a new way of approaching faith that addresses the questions the emerging generation is asking and that incorporates a radically humble and relational approach. An impressive list of contributors including Dan Kimball (They Like Jesus but Not the Church), Brian Godawa (Hollywood Worldviews), and Josh McDowell show that today's apologetics must employ...a clear connection with everyday lifean invitation for people to express their doubts and wrestle with tough questionsa culturally savvy understanding of the way secular people view Christiansan engaging methodology that captures the imagination before engaging the minda strong emphasis on the resurrection and how it changes everythingThis resource is imperative for leaders who are ready to engage a new generation with the claims of Christ.

Customer Reviews

“The compilation of noted speakers and authors in Apologetics for a New Generation on pertinent topics that face this and our next generation is absolutely outstanding. It is a must read for every parent, youth worker and teacher out there. “No person who is serious about affecting the lives of young people for Christ should be without the insight and wisdom contained in this book. I'd love to see it as required reading in every youth group/small study group across the nation. Our Christian young people need not only to believe in Christ, but be able to defend their faith in Christ and this resource is a definite beginning for this use. Thanks Sean for a job well done.â•â¢Dr. Timothy L. Heaton, Professor of Education, Cedarville Universityâ•â“Apologetics meets postmodernism. Sean gives me a renewed sense that apologetics really does matter. I will recommend this book to every youth pastor I know.â•â¢Ryan Snuffer, DMin, director, The Christian Resource Center

Sean McDowell is an educator and a popular speaker at schools, churches, and conferences nationwide. He is author of Ethix: Being Bold in a Whatever World, coauthor of 77 FAQs About God and the Bible, Experience Your Bible, and Understanding Intelligent Design, and general editor of Apologetics for a New Generation and The Apologetics Study Bible for Students. He is currently pursuing a PhD in apologetics and worldview studies. Seanâ•â¢s website, www.seanmcdowell.org, offers his blog, many articles and videos, and much additional curriculum.

'Apologetics For A New Generation' is well worth reading for anyone who is interested in apologetics as it relates to the evangelism of younger people. It has chapters written by a number of different apologists. The general editor is Sean McDowell, the son of well known apologist Josh McDowell. Although there is plenty of solid information relating to arguments for the Christian faith in it, the emphasis is on presenting the case in a loving manner. As McDowell (Sean) says, 'People still don't care how much you know if they don't know you care'. There are a number of great concepts presented here including two different types of apologetics - 'The tough minded and the tender minded'. The first is the type most commonly addressed in print. It consists of the use of logic, hard evidence, and arguments. The second type has more of an emphasis on emotional and subjective approaches. Although the first type is my preference, the other certainly has its place and the various authors presented here do a great job of making that case. The need for apologetics is critical. Surveys have revealed that upwards of seventy percent of Protestant young people walk away from the church between the ages of 18 and 22. Much of this has to do with the failure of the church to train young people in the numerous evidences and arguments for Christianity in an effective manner. This book may be a partial antidote to that. I would encourage every youth leader and young Christian to read it. Actually, it would be better if every Christian absorbed it and acted on the advice given.

very useful information

Loved the ideas and what was written

Super book. Huge help for beginning apologists.

Sean McDowell represented on this book! It was GREAT a must read for every believer it will motivate your move towards evangelism and educate you in the area of apologetics. I was blessed by Sean and John's collaboration and the viewpoint on Relativism and Lee Strobel's interview and pretty much everything in the book was phenomenal!

2nd copy. Gave away the first. Will probably buy more.

Very good !! Thanks !!!

Great book, good condition and helpful
