The design and make of the Classic plain notebook are great. But the paper quality is really disappointing. The thin paper quality results in so much bleed through and show through it renders the notebook practically useless with pens - ballpoint, roller, fountain - it doesn't matter. Look at the picture I've included of the bleed through with Moleskine's own roller pen designed for use with their notebooks! Just search Google for Moleskine paper quality and you will see a mountain of complaints about bleed through and show through. I wish I had before I bought this Moleskine. Will not be buying again. Oh, and don't buy it into the marketing suggesting connections with Chatwin, Picasso, Van Gough and Hemingway. It's all manufactured by Moleskine.[...]

I love these little notebooks. I keep one on me all the time for notes. I have also gone through several over the last 5 years by grading and recording notes on tobacco and whisky. One notebook lasts several months and stands up to having a cigar band glued inside every other page and still lays relatively flat. These are much more durable than a Field Notes type of notebook. This features a hard cover and more pages but still fits comfortably in a back or cargo pocket.

I purchased the ruled pocket notebook and I must say, this notebook is the perfect size for a busy mom like me. Small enough to keep it in my purse, yet large enough to use it at the office. ALL of my notes, ideas, shopping lists and reminders go in this thing. Whether it's personal or work related, I jot it down in here. I like to keep it simple and not have different places to look for information when I need it. At night, I keep it on my nightstand. Any important reminders or ideas that come to mind once my head hits the pillow gets jotted down. It's amazing how doing that before I go to bed helps my stress level. I also like having it with me at all times - I feel like I am staying on top of things and can honestly say that I am so much more organized because of it. I have tried other pocket-sized notebooks and they do not stand the test of time like these do! The construction of this notebook is fabulous. It is built to last. The little pocket inside serves as the temporary home for coupons, receipts and check stubs until I can file them away permanently or trash them. If you are struggling with jumbled thoughts and forgotten ideas, and general disorganization, this thing is the perfect first step. We need to stop relying so much on electronic devices and go back to good old pen and paper!

I used to get similar books from one of my professional groups years ago and I missed them as I transitioned into a smart phone, but I missed the ability to sketch and take quick notes. Last year one came in the mail...rather than hope for this to happen again, I simply bought a Moleskine and now I'm ready for notes and sketches for another year! Best of all, by writing things down, no batteries are required nor finding older software to open the files...

The build and quality are great--true to reputation. I thought this was a medium-sized notebook (smaller than full letter size, but larger than a wallet...which is this one); turns out I should have spent a little longer looking at the dimensions. I bought the larger version at a local bookstore and should have realized the price was too good to be true for an exact replacement. Oh well, this will turn into a portable travel journal.

I use this for a food log and workout journal. So a lot of wear and tear and with me all day everyday. I was amazed how well it held up I have since bought five more. The pocket inside the back flap comes in handy I sometimes put money/CC or my ID there. I also keep my gym membership card there which is nice since I bounce back and forth between my motorcycle and car and don't have to keep it on a key ring. It is great for work too I prefer something larger but many guys I work with use this. I am in the IT field and it's great for that also in the military so another plus for the quality and beating it can take. Bottom line no matter what you are planning to use this for its worth the money and you will be satisfied.

Pay attention to the sizing on this. While I'm happy with the purchase and the binding and paper I'd all really high quality, I expected one a bit bigger. Maybe that's what you want, but it's worth double checking before you buy.

Perfect for a skipper or mate's log. I needed a log that could take some abuse without falling apart. I keep it in my sailing duffle, which gets thrown up on the dock, stuffed in lockers, left in the car trunk, etc. I had used square-ruled moleskines before as engineering notebooks. They have several features that make them better than any notebook that I have been able to find in office supply stores, book stores, or stationers. They are archival quality with sewn-in acid free pages and a sturdy cover. It opens nearly flat on desk for ease of writing and drawing. The sewn-in fabric bookmark makes it easy to open to your desired place without having to keep up with a paper bookmark. The elastic band that holds the book closed when not in use is also firmly attached - no rubber band to lose. I keep my ASA card in the handy pocket attached to the inside back cover. The square-ruled pages make it easier for me to sketch things such as tricky channels, shorelines, or ideas for sailing gizmos.
