Al-Ghazālī (c.1056–1111) was one of the most prominent and influential philosophers, theologians, jurists, and mystics of Sunni Islam. He was active at a time when Sunni theology had just passed through its consolidation and entered a period of intense challenges from Shiite Ismāʿīlīte theology and the Arabic tradition of Aristotelian philosophy (falsafa).

Al-Ghazālī understood the importance of falsafa and developed a complex response that rejected and condemned some of its teachings, while it also allowed him to accept and apply others. Al-Ghazālī's critique of twenty positions of falsafa in his Incoherence of the Philosophers (Tahfūt al-falāsifa) is a significant landmark in the history of philosophy as it advances the nominalist critique of Aristotelian science developed later in 14th century Europe. On the Arabic and Muslim side al-Ghazālī's acceptance of demonstration (apodeixis) led to a much more refined and precise discourse on epistemology and a flowering of Aristotelian logics and metaphysics. With al-Ghazālī begins the successful introduction of Aristotelianism or rather Avicennism into Muslim theology. After a period of appropriation of the Greek sciences in the translation movement from Greek into Arabic and the writings of the falāsifa up to Avicenna (Ibn

Salman (c.980-1037), philosophy and the Greek sciences were naturalized into the discourse of kalām and Muslim theology (Sabra 1987). Al-Ghazālī's approach to resolving apparent contradictions between reason and revelation was accepted by almost all later Muslim theologians and had, via the works of Averroes (Ibn Rushd, 1126-98) and Jewish authors a significant influence on Latin medieval thinking. -- Griffel, Frank, "Al-Ghazali", The Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy (Summer 2013 Edition), Edward N. Zalta (ed.)

I had no idea there was a spiritual duty to correct others until I read the Koran. This book gives you some idea how to do it.. I will work it a little time based.
