The author has lived aboard boats for 14 years. Twice, Captain Rhodes sailed his 33-foot Morgan Ol to the Western Caribbean and Central America. He has also traveled at length through out northern Latin America, and recently served in Ecuador as a U.S. Peace Corps Volunteer. The author has held a US Coast Guard captain's license for over a dozen years, and has a graduate degree in forestry. He has also worked in the international field for the federal government.

The most comprehensive, accurate and thoughtful guide to the Bay Islands available to the cruising sailor. Well researched and well written. The charts, while accurate and plentiful, need work. I hope to see more areas covered by Capt. Rhodes in the future.
