Merriam-Webster has been America's leading and most trusted provider of language information for over 150 years. Publications include Merriam-Webster's Collegiate® Dictionary (among the best selling books in American history) and dictionaries for English-language learners.

It's a good pad for daily reminders and notes. Unfortunately, each year the words become more antiquated; they're not relevant to daily English usage. Examples from this year's (2017) calendar: valetudinarian, camarilla, catawampus, and interpellate. I wish the publishers would return to words one can actually use in everyday conversation without sounding pedantic.

Large sized and convenient for notes throughout the day

This my 3 year ordering this I use it at work for my todo list but like learning the new words.

Great for persons who also need a daily notepad - but too big for me to keep out on desk.

I am a list maker and it's nice to see if there are any words not in my vocabulary.

Great calendar! Plenty of room to write daily to do list.

was hoping to get the quote a day but they don't seem to make it any more, had to settle for this one

I've been buying page-a-day calendars for a very long time, and this notepad for the last 4 or 5 years. I like the notepad better than the little boxed calendars on a stand that take up desk space and are always tipping over. The notepad reminds me of the date and year as well as giving me a place to jot reminders and to do lists. I usually purchase on , but this year they started with a too high price, so I found it elsewhere because I didn't know if the price would drop (it did). What I like: lots of writing space, the paper is not shiny, the paper doesn't smell (some highly colored calendars smell), and the date is large and easy to read. What I don't like is that the year is small and the little monthly calendars are useless because they are too small. My wish list would be for a different color at the bottom each year for variety, no mini monthly calendars at the bottom, and instead put the year in large bold letters. Yes, sometimes I need to be reminded of what year it is! I don't pay much attention to the new words and select this one every year because the words take up less space than the puzzles. If they switched to a small encouraging but non-religious thought for the day, I'd choose that instead.
